

Dinner Talk

"Welcome welcome one and all
thank you for taking my call."

"That's what friends are for!"

"Haha yeah, thank you Dean.
As you've seen it's been a year with dear dear friends.
Spending time together.
Some get fatter some get thinner, so please enjoy the dinner."

"Are you saying I'm fat?"

"No Joe, just making a joke."

"So I'm a joke to one and all?"

"Not at all you misunderstand"

"Oh that's just grand
you invite me here to see my tears and fear for all this dinner you serve.
I deserve some healthy food for me to eat like celery."

"Sorry Joe I didn't know but looky here and have no fear, for this is salad, freshly picked, organic food that won't make you sick.
No dressing here.
I won't steer you wrong, and all the guests will all play along.
Please one and all! Show Joe you care, tell him about all the things that we share.
Tell him his value that he gives us all, inspiring us to stand tall."

"Salad you say? Picked just today? You must have gone out of your way."

"Just ask anyone and they will say, your worth the effort every day."

By Steven Hammon